CURRENT LANDSCAPE OF EXECUTIVE COMPENSATION PLANS

Presented by: Margaret Resce Milkint
Managing Partner

JACOBSON
AGENDA

Review the current state.

Explore and discuss the NAMIC Executive Compensation Study.

Weave in executive compensation...create a living and breathing workforce strategy.
…good people, top executives in general, are intrinsically motivated, but incentives provide a powerful messaging and focusing device. In addition, the market for executive labor is generally willing to pay more for an executive that produces great performance.

- Robin A. Ferracone
  Fair Pay, Fair Play: Aligning Executive Performance and Pay
OPENING REMARKS

Compensation strategy is simply one component of the overall workforce strategy.

We cannot overstate the importance of a shared understanding of workforce philosophy.

Mutuals embody an over-arching opportunity, providing top performers a meaningful sense of purpose and work/life harmony.
REVIEW THE CURRENT STATE.
NAMIC’s Executive Compensation Study showed that most mutual insurance companies are growing.

Job responsibilities have broadened considerably, and the pace at which jobs change has also increased dramatically.

The war for talent is real!
CURRENT WORKFORCE

Workers 45 and over account for 48 percent of the insurance industry’s workforce. This means about half of the industry’s workforce will be retired or on the verge of retirement within the next 15 years!

Gen X represents the smallest segment of the workforce and there is a scarcity of skilled talent following them.

The competitive market for skilled executive-level talent is growing!

Source: Bureau of Labor Statistics
SHIFTING DYNAMICS

Never in the modern world have there been four generations in the workplace; all bring vastly different beliefs, expectations and values.

Never has a generation entered the workplace using such advanced technologies as those adopted by its employers.

Never has technology made it so easy to connect anyone, anywhere for collaboration.

Never has it been possible to acquire, use and seamlessly integrate talent from around the world. The global workforce is today’s reality.

Never before has society put as much pressure on organizations to be socially-responsible: the key differentiator for mutuals!
EXPLORE AND DISCUSS THE NAMIC EXECUTIVE COMPENSATION STUDY.
Merit increases were “on target” with increases at companies within the insurance and financial sector reported in the WorldatWork Salary Budget Survey.

Executives of mutual companies do not receive the same amount in bonuses as similar positions in the external market (using a blend of data from the insurance and general industry), but most mutuals do offer bonuses to top executives (C-level and VP-level).

Source: 2012 NAMIC Executive Compensation Study
CURRENT TRENDS IN COMPENSATION AMONG NAMIC COMPANIES

Most NAMIC companies offer perquisites to their CEO, including:

- Company car or allowance
- Supplemental medical or group life insurance
- Tuition reimbursement
- Travel expenses for spouses

Source: 2012 NAMIC Executive Compensation Study
CURRENT TRENDS IN COMPENSATION AMONG NAMIC COMPANIES

NAMIC companies offer defined benefit and retiree medical insurance with higher frequency than the external market.

The majority of NAMIC companies have a PTO policy.

Source: 2012 NAMIC Executive Compensation Study
MUTUAL REALITY VS. CORPORATE REALITY

How can we, as an industry, capitalize on the advantages of mutuality?
We are facing deep competition for talent and customers from stock companies; how can we address the stock company as “competitor”??
WEAVE IN EXECUTIVE COMPENSATION...CREATE A LIVING AND BREATHING WORKFORCE STRATEGY.
REMEMBER

This is only information – the resulting decisions and actions are up to you!

Treat executive compensation strategy as a living, breathing element of your organization.
We cannot rely on best practices. This is personal, one size does not fit all. Remember to promote the intangibles for the “hidden paycheck.”
A DIFFERENTIATED WORKFORCE

Today’s playing field requires differentiation on the inside, especially in terms of recruiting, developing and rewarding our workforce.

Positions within our organizational structures differ in their contribution to strategic success and must be compensated accordingly.
FOUR STAGES OF WORKFORCE DIFFERENTIATION

One size fits all
Generic fit
Differentiate by strategic capability
Differentiate by jobs within strategic capabilities

Fit between strategy and workforce differentiation

Source: Brian E. Becker, Mark A. Huselid, & Richard W. Beatty, The Differentiated Workforce: Transforming Talent into Strategic Impact
Incentives for strategic talent must be strong, competitive and compelling!

Factor in the non-monetary rewards of mutuality:

- Sense of purpose and belonging
- Attractive work/life harmony
- Socially responsible and civic and community minded
INCENTIVES AND REWARDS

ANNUAL INCENTIVES
Compensate executive for short-term achievements:

• Increasing revenue or market share
• Improving profit margins
• Implementing new strategies
• Developing new products
• Expanding to new markets

LONG-TERM INCENTIVES
Compensate for strategic objectives that maximize corporate value:

• Total return to policy holders
• Reducing overall level of uncertainty and growing policy holder surplus
• Executives must be incentivized to grow leadership capacity with the company—succession planning
• Corporate citizenship: giving back to the community

Source: Center on Executive Compensation
EXECUTIVE COMPENSATION SHOULD BE...

- Aligned with the organization’s values
- Supportive of the mission and vision for the future
- Directly tied to achievement of the company’s goals
- Transparent and measurable
- In concert with the long-term best interests of policy holders and other stakeholders
“Mutual insurers have a proud and significant tradition...while the landscape is different, growth and prosperity is still achieved through people.

- Margaret Resce Milkint
  2012 NAMIC Executive Compensation Study
QUESTIONS?

Margaret Resce Milkint
Managing Partner
(312) 884-0410
mmilkint@jacobsononline.com